

President's Report

Dear LVMA Members,

As we welcome the fall season and approach the holidays, I find myself reflecting on my time as LVMA President with deep gratitude and excitement for the future. It's hard to believe how quickly this year has flown by—wasn't it just spring yesterday? Whether you're already ahead on holiday shopping or, like me, still wondering when you'll find the time, I hope you're embracing the season's energy and joy.

Serving as LVMA President has been an absolute honor. I am continually inspired by the dedication, talent, and warmth of our members -people who are passionate about making a difference! Thank you for the trust you placed in me and for the privilege of working alongside such a vibrant network.

Registration is now open for the 2026 LVMA Winter Meeting to be held March 26-29, 2026, at the DoubleTree in Lafayette, LA!

Attending the LVMA's Annual Winter Meeting is a great opportunity for veterinarians to receive the required 20 hours of continuing education credit. At our Business meeting on Saturday, March 28 we will recognize the winners of our awards for contributions to Veterinary Medicine and Animal Welfare including Salesperson of the Year and Pet of the Year. Our membership will also welcome Dr. Clare Scully as our new President at this meeting.

Please plan to join us at the Winter Meeting and encourage your veterinary technicians to attend so they can earn CE and network with colleagues.

On December 14, I will participate in the LSU SVM White Coat Ceremony for the Class of 2027. The ceremony signifies the start of their clinical rotations and symbolizes their readiness for patient care. Your LVMA is honored and privileged to participate in this milestone ceremony for students who will soon become our colleagues. Welcoming these students as members of the LVMA, along with their complimentary membership, is part of the message to them. Please reach out to veterinary students and recent graduates to encourage them to join our organization.

Dr. Kathleen Elstrott and I will attend the AVMA House of Delegates (HOD) Winter Meeting and Veterinary Leadership Conference (VLC) in Chicago, representing you as Alternate Delegate and Delegate to the HOD, respectively. We are honored to represent Louisiana veterinarians!

We're eager to hear your ideas for how your LVMA can best support you in 2026 and beyond. Please share your comments, suggestions, or dreams for the future—let's shape the next chapter together!

Thank you for your continued support and for making the LVMA such a special community. Wishing you a safe, healthy, and happy holiday season. Here's to the future!

With gratitude,

Executive Director's Report

The end of the year is upon us, and I can say that this year has overall been a great year for the LVMA! We started the year off with a successful conference in Baton Rouge and then rolled right into the legislative session where your Legislative Team worked hard to protect the veterinary profession and were overwhelmingly successful. SWVS continues to be a successful partnership and lastly, the LVMA was well represented at Commissioner Mike Strain's Fall Ball and those in attendance had a great time as always.

The LVMA hosted their Board meeting at SWVS in September where they continued to discuss initiatives in the Strategic Plan and plans for the 2026 year. We thank the volunteers helping out on the initiatives and we are excited to bring some of this work to the membership in the coming year.

In October, I had the pleasure of attending the Veterinary Medical Association of Executives (VMAE) meeting which is made up of association executives (ex. Executive Directors) in veterinary medicine. This meeting is always one of my favorites – it is inspiring to hear the success of other veterinary associations programs and share successes from LVMA with others. There is such great enthusiasm for the veterinary profession, and I am honored to be a part of this community.

Important Reminder - LVMA dues statements for 2026 have been mailed and are available for renewal online at www.lvma.org. The renewal includes optional voluntary contributions to the Dr. Walter J. Ernst, Jr. Veterinary Memorial Foundation ("the Foundation") and the LVMA Political Action Committee (PAC). Contributions to the Foundation are deductible as charitable contributions. Contributions to the PAC are not deductible for federal income tax purposes. Feel free to strike out the suggested amount and replace it with a larger contribution than suggested.

Lastly, don't forget that we will be hosting our 2026 Winterish Meeting March 26-29, 2026 at the DoubleTree Lafayette. Registration and housing is open so book soon before the room block fills up. Lafayette is always a great draw and we look forward to hosting you all next quarter.

I wish you all a joyous holiday season,

Melanie Talley, CAE

LSU VET MED TREATING THREE TEXAS HORSES QUARANTINED FOR CONFIRMED EQUINE HERPESVIRUS-1

November 19, 2025

Cases of Equine Herpesvirus-1 (EHV-1) has been confirmed by equine veterinary clinics in Texas, with cases traced to a recent equine competition in Waco. Three horses from Texas that participated in that event are currently quarantined at the LSU School of Veterinary Medicine Veterinary Teaching Hospital (VTH) and receiving treatment for confirmed EHV-1. The owners of these horses were given special permission by the Texas and Louisiana state veterinarians to cross state lines because isolation facilities in Texas are full, and LSU Vet Med has the next closest respiratory isolation unit. Quarantined horses are being housed in the isolation unit and pose no risk to animals in the rest of the VTH, and the equine hospital will remain open for appointments and emergency cases.

Diagnosis

Nasal swabs and blood samples from the horses were submitted to LSU Diagnostics (Louisiana Animal Disease Diagnostics Lab) for a diagnosis. A real-time polymerase chain reaction (PCR) assay was performed on specimens for detection of EHV-1. This method of testing is highly sensitive and specific with a rapid (one day) turnaround time for results.

What is EHV-1?

EHV-1 is a virus that spreads from horse to horse through contact with nasal discharge and aerosol droplets; it can also spread through contact with contaminated surfaces such as stalls, water, feed, tack, and vehicles, and people can spread the virus through contaminated hands, clothing, and equipment. EHV-1 predominantly causes respiratory signs but can cause other issues such as neurologic disease and abortion in pregnant mares.

Vaccine and Prevention

There is no vaccine to protect against the neurologic form of the disease, but there are vaccines to protect against from the respiratory and abortion forms of the disease. The best way to limit spread of the disease is to quarantine horses that may have been exposed to infected horses and clean and disinfect surfaces, clothing, and equipment to reduce the chance of transmission.

Prognosis

EHV-1 is not typically fatal, but horses that are severely affected may need hospitalization and severe cases of the neurologic form can potentially be deadly.

Signs

Clinical signs include

- Fever
- Nasal discharge
- Enlarged lymph nodes
- Lethargy
- Late-term abortion (up to two months following infection)
- Neurologic disease (signs include inability to stand, incoordination, urine dribbling)

If you suspect you have a horse that has developed the neurologic form of EHV-1, LSU VTH requires an initial assessment by your veterinarian to determine if it is able to be treated and quarantined on the property or if it requires referral to LSU. Many horses with neurologic EHV-1 can be successfully treated and quarantined on their property. Only severe cases should be referred to a veterinary hospital with a quarantine facility capable of handling contagious respiratory diseases, such as at LSU VTH. Once the isolation facility is at capacity, no additional cases will be able to be accepted to the VTH until stalls in the isolation building become available again.

Treatment

Horses with EHV-1 can be treated with supportive care and anti-inflammatory medications. Drugs may also be necessary to reduce fever and improve appetite. Antiviral medications may be needed for the neurologic form of EHV-1 and are best utilized when administered to exposed horses before they onset of clinical signs. Owners should contact their veterinarian to discuss treatment options.

“Owners that suspect a horse has been exposed should contact their veterinarian and quarantine the horse and any horses that have been exposed to that horse,” said Rose Baker, BVMS, DACVIM (LAIM), associate professor of equine medicine. “Your veterinarian can submit samples to LSU Diagnostics to determine if a horse is shedding EHV-1 into the environment.” Dr. Baker’s clinical and research interests relate to neurologic diseases in horses, critical care, and internal medicine.

Contact

For questions about EHV-1 testing, please call LSU Diagnostics at 225-578-9777 or go to laddl.org. If you or your veterinarian need to speak to an equine specialist at LSU Vet Med, please call 225-578-9500. Information about the LSU Vet Med VTH is available online at lsu.edu/vetmed under Hospital.

About LSU Diagnostics

LSU Diagnostics (Louisiana Animal Disease Diagnostic Lab) is a full-service American Association of Veterinary Laboratory Diagnosticians-accredited facility housed within the LSU School of Veterinary Medicine. The laboratory provides animal disease diagnostic services to veterinarians, livestock and poultry producers, and animal owners across Louisiana and neighboring states. LSU Diagnostics supports teaching and research programs at LSU Vet Med and plays a vital role in detecting, controlling, and preventing animal diseases that affect public health and the economy.

About LSU Vet Med: Bettering lives through education, public service, and discovery

The LSU School of Veterinary Medicine is one of only 33 veterinary schools in the U.S. and the only one in Louisiana. LSU Vet Med is dedicated to improving and protecting the lives of animals and people through superior education, transformational research, and compassionate care. We teach. We heal. We discover. We protect.
