2014 Winter Meeting ~ January 24-26, 2014

The Louisiana Veterinary Medical Association invites you to the 2014 Winter Meeting, January 24-26, 2014 at the Crowne Plaza Hotel in Baton Rouge, LA.

This year’s program will offer 22 hours of continuing education. Whether you are a veterinarian, student, veterinary technician, office manager, or other staff, there is something to spark your interest. More information can be found in this newsletter on pages 6-8. A full schedule and registration brochure can be downloaded from the LVMA website, www.LVMA.org.

As always, the Winter Meeting will feature various exhibitors that cater to the veterinary community. The exhibit hall will be open from 7:00 am to 3:00 pm on Friday and 7:00 am to 3:30 pm on Saturday for you to browse and explore what all the vendors have to offer.

There will also be an array of social and networking events throughout the weekend. A continental breakfast will be offered every morning in the exhibit hall and the Christian Breakfast is scheduled for Saturday morning. Also on Saturday, an Auxiliary tour will take place as well as the Annual Business Meeting and Veterinarian Luncheon. Saturday evening will feature a Student Speed Networking event hosted by the LSU SCAVMA.

Advanced registration is recommended for the 2014 Winter Meeting. The cutoff for advanced registration is Tuesday, December 31, 2013. Any registrations made or postmarked after this date must include a $25 late fee. On-site registrations will also be subject to the $25 late fee.

Register now...Don’t miss the LVMA 2014 Winter Meeting!
2013 has been a very eventful year for the LVMA. For the first time in more than a decade the LVMA engaged legislative lobbyist representation, forging a relationship with the Courson Nickel team of Bud Courson and Jim Nickel. Courson Nickel conducted a masterful campaign that successfully extricated veterinarians from the Prescription Monitoring Program (PMP) in Louisiana. Commissioner of Agriculture and Forestry Mike Strain, DVM, as well as legislative chair Patrick Thistlethwaite, DVM and legislative committee members Fenton Lipscomb, DVM and Mack Lea, DVM, also deserve great praise and appreciation for their efforts related to the PMP issue. The LVMA and Courson Nickel now look forward to a long, mutually-successful relationship in 2014 and beyond.

The LVMA 2013 Winter Meeting in New Orleans was the best attended LVMA meeting on record, with over 400 veterinarians attending and a total meeting attendance of over 600. Although a one-day seminar scheduled for the Spring was cancelled due to the speaker’s automobile accident on the way to the airport, CEVA sponsored a media training day with Dr. Jim Humphries in the Spring that many members enjoyed.

Hopefully we won’t need legislative heroics in 2014, but the 2014 Winter Meeting has a lineup of speakers that is among the best ever assembled for an LVMA meeting! The meeting will be at the Baton Rouge Crowne Plaza Hotel, January 24-26, 2014. For companion animal practitioners, Saturday is going to be a particularly difficult day to choose between Drs. Stephen Birchard and Frederic and Laurie Gaschen on clinical topics and the nationally prominent Fritz Wood on practice management. Stay tuned for a little more descriptive information on Fritz Wood’s program as it becomes available. Friday also offers very rich selections with topics on hip dysplasia, liver disease, heartworms, dermatology, ophthalmology and (will it be 3D?) surgery. The Sunday MedVet lineup is becoming a very popular Winter Meeting staple. The Large Animal Program features Commissioner Mike Strain, DVM and Drs. Christine Navarre, Matt Welborn and Jacques Fuselier, to name only a few. More information about the Meeting, including a full program schedule and registration form, is provided in this newsletter. You may also visit the website at www.lvma.org in order to register online or for a printable form to complete and submit.

Stay well and stay connected!

Case Report from the LSU Veterinary Teaching Hospital

Signalment & History: A 3-year-old, Thoroughbred gelding presented for evaluation after performing poorly during his previous race. The horse started the race well, but tired rapidly and finished towards the back of the pack. Upper airway endoscopy was performed by the referring veterinarian, and an abnormal left arytenoid was identified. This did not appear to be a standard laryngeal hemiplegia, and the horse was referred to the LSU Equine Surgery service for further evaluation and treatment.

Clinical Evaluation: Upon presentation, the gelding’s physical examination was within normal limits, and the muscular process of the left arytenoid was not easily palpable. Upper airway endoscopy was performed with minimal restraint. The left arytenoid was lazy and unable to achieve and maintain full abduction when the horse inhaled. The corniculate process was visibly abnormal and also rotated into the rima glottis and appeared to be fixed in that position (see Figures 1 and 2). Ultrasound examination of the arytenoid cartilage revealed a thickened, irregular lateral border of the left arytenoid cartilage, consistent with a diagnosis of arytenoid chondritis. A partial arytenoidectomy was recommended and performed the following day via a laryngotomy incision with the horse under general anesthesia.

Outcome: Postoperatively the gelding was initially confined to a stall with a temporary tracheostomy tube in place. The tracheostomy tube was removed 24 hours later when the horse was able to breathe easily around the tube while it was temporarily occluded. At this time, the upper airway endoscopy was repeated and although there was postoperative swelling, the surgery site appeared healthy (see Figure 3). The gelding was discharged two days after the tracheostomy tube was removed. He was able to breathe normally, was eating well and appeared comfortable.

Review: This horse now has to be rested for the next few months before being able to return to racing. Early surgical intervention for arytenoid chondritis can allow the horse to be treated before excessive deformation of the arytenoid or its mucosal surface has occurred, which generally results in faster healing with less risk of dehiscence of the mucosal flap. As this case illustrates well, a specific and correct diagnosis is vital to a successful outcome; treating this horse with a prosthetic laryngoplasty for arytenoid hemiplegia would have not resolved the breathing issues. This horse was diagnosed and treated promptly and because of that should be ready to race this fall.

Figure 2: Endoscopic view of the abnormal larynx in this case: The left corniculate process (C) appears to be displaced axially and the entire arytenoid cartilage is not able to abduct out of the airway during inhalation. Note the intrusion of the abnormal corniculate process into the rima glottis.

Figure 4: The Equine Health Studies Program was developed by and for Louisiana’s horse industry and is dedicated to equine health, well-being and performance.

A special thank you to Dr. Keith Cooper at Cooper’s Mobile Veterinary Service for this referral and the support of our teaching hospital.
Update on Louisiana Association of Veterinary Technicians

Did you know that Louisiana Association of Veterinary Technicians (LAVT) is currently active and working to support veterinary technicians in the state? We currently have a Board of Directors and plan on accepting applications at the LVMA Winter Conference. We will have a roundtable discussion regarding the recent changes in our profession in this state at the LVMA meeting held at the Crowne Plaza Hotel in Baton Rouge on Saturday January 25th at 4pm. Animal Disease Traceability and Category II Accredited Veterinarians

Louisiana achieved brucellosis free status in July 2000 and tuberculosis free status in July 1994 and the Louisiana Department of Agriculture & Forestry (LDAF) discontinued brucellosis testing at auction markets in March 2009 and discontinued vaccinating calves for brucellosis in December 2010. As a result of these actions, the number of officially tested and tagged cattle in the state has drastically declined and our ability to trace an animal in a disease outbreak has diminished.

To counter this problem in Louisiana and the rest of the nation, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) introduced the Animal Disease Traceability Rule which became law on March 11, 2013. There are 2 basics tenets of this rule: unless specifically exempt, livestock moving into interstate commerce must have official identification and a health certificate. Livestock covered under this rule include cattle, bison, equine, sheep, goats, swine, captive cervid, and poultry. Animals moving intrastate are not affected by this law.

Traceability has not changed Interstate livestock movement requirements because animals moving to another state have always needed a health certificate and permanent, unique identification. However, official identification has now been defined for livestock species and exceptions have been made for both official id and health certificate use.

Record keeping requirements have changed under Traceability. The Category II Accredited Veterinarian who writes a health certificate has 7 working days to submit this document to the Louisiana office of the State Veterinarian who then has 7 more working days to submit the document to the State Veterinarian’s Office of destination. Also the veterinarian must maintain records of tags that are applied to livestock for 5 years or a record of tag numbers applied may be sent to our office.

The first year of Animal Disease Traceability has been directed at education and outreach to stakeholders. Next year will be directed at monitoring and compliance and LDAF will work with private veterinarians to facilitate that compliance. We will have a booth at the LVMA Winter Meeting with information and samples of official ID and health certificates, both electronic and paper. We will offer sign-ups for free trials on electronic health certificates and will have tutorials on how to use them. We will have boxes of metal ear tags available at no charge as well as information on our brucellosis calf-hood vaccination rebate program for Category II Veterinarians. Please visit us at the Winter Meeting in Baton Rouge on January 24-25, 2014.

More information on official ID for each species and health certificates may be accessed at our website at www.ldaf.state.la.us or by calling our office at (225) 925-3980.

National Veterinary Accreditation Program (NVAP)

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) established the veterinary accreditation program so private practitioners could assist Federal and State veterinarians in controlling animal diseases. The NVAP is managed nationally, but authorization is still on a State by State basis. In December 2009 the USDA passed a rule establishing two accreditation categories (Category I and Category II) to replace the previous single category. The rule also added requirements for supplemental training and renewal of accreditation every three years.

Category I veterinarians may perform accreditation duties on primarily companion animals. Accreditation must be renewed every three years by taking six hours of USDA approved continuing education courses (CE). Category II veterinarians may perform accreditation duties on any or all animals. Accreditation must be renewed every three years by taking six hours of USDA approved CE.

Approved CE is due on your accreditation renewal date and may be taken at veterinary meetings, online, by CD, or by printed manuals ordered from the USDA. Veterinarians may locate their CE renewal date by reviewing their initial accreditation letter or by contacting the state or federal offices. Once CE is completed, the USDA form VS 1-36A must be mailed to the USDA Office at the address below.

The Louisiana Department of Agriculture & Forestry (LDAF) will have a booth at the LVMA Winter Meeting with information on NVAP for accredited veterinarians. We will have two computers available for you to take online CE and our staff will assist you in accessing the courses and printing the certificate. We will also print accreditation letters with your renewal date if needed. NVAP courses will not be offered in the classroom for CE this year so during your off-time, please stop by and see our booth at the Winter Meeting in Baton Rouge on January 24-25, 2014.

More information on NVAP continuing education may be accessed online at http://www.aphis.usda.gov/animal_health/vet_accreditation/aast.shtml or call the LDAF office at (225) 925-3980 or the USDA Office at 501-224-9515.

As part of the reorganization of USDA Veterinary Services, the office in Arkansas is now handling all accreditation renewals. The contact information for that office is:
